

SAFESTREETS

June 1, 2017

In the news: Part two of Live in Everett podcast now available

EVERETT – Recently, Hil Kaman, Everett’s director of public health and safety, was asked to talk with the Live in Everett team about the street-level issues happening right here in our city. Last week, Live in Everett shared the first part of this interview, and this week, the conversation continued with part two.

Listen in on how the City works to compassionately address these issues, and how the Safe Streets Plan helps to find the best solutions to take care of some of Everett’s most vulnerable citizens.

If you missed part one, it is available on Live in Everett’s site now. Learn more about the Community Streets Initiative or the Everett Safe Streets Plan.

Learn more:

For more information on the Community Streets Initiative, visit www.everettwa.gov/streetsinitiative.

For more information on the Safe Streets Plan, visit www.everettwa.gov/safestreets.

Sign up for email updates at www.everettwa.gov/notifyme.